Sickle-Cell Trait Testing Agreement, Waiver and Release of Claims On-Campus Evaluation – Men’s and Women’s Basketball

The following information has been provided from the “NCAA Fact Sheet for Student-Athletes regarding Sickle Cell”. For more information and resources, visit www.NCAA.org/health-safety.

Sickle cell trait is the inheritance of one gene for sickle hemoglobin and one for normal hemoglobin. Sickle cell trait is a life-long condition that will not change over time and will not turn into the disease. During intense exercise, red blood cells containing the sickle hemoglobin can change shape from round to quarter-moon or “sickle”. Sickled red cells may accumulate in the bloodstream during intense exercise, blocking normal blood flow to the tissues and muscles. During intense exercise, athletes with sickle cell trait have experienced significant physical distress, collapsed and even died. Heat, dehydration, altitude and asthma can increase the risk for and worsen complications associated with sickle cell trait, even when exercise is not intense. Athletes with sickle cell trait should not be excluded from participation as precautions can be put into place. Sickle cell trait occurs in about 8% of the U.S. African-American population, and between one in 2,000 to one in 10,000 in the Caucasian population. Though sickle cell trait can occur in any ethnic group, studies show that it has a low incidence rate in persons with northern European ancestry and a slightly higher incidence rate in persons with Middle-Eastern and East Asian Indian ancestry. Most U.S. states test at birth, but most athletes with sickle cell trait do not know they have it.

I am aware that participation in an on-campus evaluation to be a potential student-athlete in intercollegiate athletics at Ohio State involves the risk of personal injury. I am also aware that if I have sickle-cell trait, I am at an increased risk for serious illness or injury, including death - especially during physical exertion. I understand that, in order to participate in such evaluation, the NCAA and Ohio State require that EVERY student-athlete be tested for sickle-cell trait, show the results of a prior test OR refuse sickle-cell trait testing. Notwithstanding the above, if I refuse sickle-cell trait testing and if Ohio State believes, in its reasonable judgment, that I may be developing symptoms that could be related to sickle-cell trait, Ohio State may require testing in order to ensure my safety and may withhold me from the evaluation until I agree to sickle-cell trait testing. I have had a full opportunity to ask questions concerning sickle-cell trait (and testing for sickle-cell trait) and to discuss the risks associated with participation in the evaluation at Ohio State if I have sickle-cell trait. Any questions or concerns I had, if any, have been addressed to my satisfaction. I understand the risks involved if I choose NOT to be tested for sickle-cell trait, and I knowingly assume such risks.

Please check ONE of the boxes below:

- I HAVE SHOWN Ohio State the results of a prior test
- I DO NOT AGREE to be tested for sickle-cell trait

If I chose NOT to be tested for sickle-cell trait, I agree that in consideration for being granted the opportunity to participate the evaluation at Ohio State without agreeing to be tested for sickle-cell trait, and in full recognition and appreciation of the risks associated therewith, I, for myself, my executors, administrators and assigns, do hereby release and forever discharge The Ohio State University and its Board of Trustees, its administrators, faculty members, employees, agents and students from any and all liability for losses, damages, injuries or costs, including but not limited to those described above, that may arise out of or that may in any way be related to such evaluation, whether caused by my negligence or carelessness or the negligence of The Ohio State University or otherwise.

I understand that this release means that, among other things, I am giving up my right to sue The Ohio State University for any such losses, damages, injury or costs that I may incur.

I represent and certify that I am at least 18 years old and that I have read, understand and agree to be legally bound by the foregoing agreement, waiver and release (if I am under age 18, a parent or legal guardian must sign this form).
